Castle Inaugurates a Strike.

THE FLOOD COMMISSION AT WORK. The Slavish Bank at Connellsville Sound

as a Dollar. NEWSY NOTES FROM THREE STATES

INPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH. NEW CASTLE, PA., March 26.-For some time past the foremen employed in the different departments of the rod mill have been having trouble with Italian laborers. When an extra big order was rushed through, they would complain of sickness, etc., and go home until the rush was over. Recently a new foreman was employed who seemed to have sufficient nerve to run the Italians laborers, instead of allowing them to run him. To-day the foreman ordered the men to place certain coils of wire on the weighing scales, but they refused, saying they were too hot. This aroused Foreman Watt's dignity, and he inaugurated an individual strike at once, saying either he or the latter were discharged, and their places were taken at once by American citizens. The discharged Italians have been making all kinds of threats, but Mr. Watt is not afraid, and says he is glad to be rid of them. He says any corporais glad to be rid of them. He says any corpora-tion employing Italians, even at the lowest wages, will suffer loss, as they are experts in shirking their work. He prefers intelligent men every time, and plainly says so.

FOR HIS LIFE.

Father Boyle's Second Trinl for a Crime Punishable by Death-He Claims to Be the Victim of Secta-

rinn Prejudice. PETECIAL TRLEGRAM TO THE DISPATCE. RALEIGH, N. C., March 26.-The second trial of Father J. J. Boyle, charged with crimical assault upon 17-year-old Geneva Whitaker, organist of the Church of the Sacred Heart of Jesus, over which he presided, will commence to-morrow. The alleged crime was committed in May and his first trial took place in October, when he was found guilty, and as this crime in North Carolina is punishable by death, he was sentenced to be hanged on November 29. Through a technicality added to the claim that he was convicted because of his relig-

He had been drinking milk punch that day, and was evidently under its influence when the assault was made. The priest employed eminent legal talent to fight his case, the principal line of defense being that no assault was made. sault was committed. He gave his name as James Joseph Boyle and said he was 30 years of age. His birthplace was Luzerne county, Pennsylvania; he had been educated at St. Francis Xavier's College, New York, and was ordained priest in Illinois. He had come to North Carolina about a year ago at the request of Bishop Haid.

Upon being asked it he had anything to say before sentence was passed, Father Boyle said he recognized that there existed in this community a deep-seated prejudice against Roman Catholics. With the bitterest invective he could summon he attacked the prosecuting counsel, and for his bold, earnest words received appliause from the nudience. He used all the powers of voice and gesture in making his peroration, and took his seat saying he was ready for the sentence. It was the most sensational scene ever witnessed in a North Carolina courtroom. The sentence of death was at once Alert to secure seasonable goods at the earliest mo-ment; quick to acquaint the public with the modes and novelties ruling at each season of the year, and ever jealons to guard the name for honorable dealing and reliability which has been awarded them on all sides, it is easy to know how Rosenbaum & Co. have gained their enviable position in the esteem of this community.
